

Question #183

Key: A

A mixture of two Poissons or negative binomials will always have a variance greater than its mean. A mixture of two binomials could have a variance equal to its mean, because a single binomial has a variance less than its mean.