

Question #192

Key: D

Because the kernel extends one unit each direction there is no overlap. The result will be three replications of the kernel. The middle one will be twice as high due to having two observations of 3 while only one observation at 1 and 5. Only graphs A and D fit this description. The kernel function is smooth, which rules out graph A.